Flooring Trends that will Huge in 2023

Flooring is one of the most important aspects of any home. It can make or break the look of a room, and it can also be a big factor in resale value. That's why it's important to stay up-to-date on the latest trends.

Here are some flooring trends that are expected to be huge in 2023:

Hybrid flooring

Hybrid flooring is a type of flooring that combines the best features of both laminate and vinyl floors. Hybrid floors are more durable than laminate floors and can be installed over any type of subfloor.

Hybrid floors are also more water-resistant than vinyl floors, making them ideal for kitchens and bathrooms. Hybrid flooring is available in a variety of colors and styles, so you can find the perfect match for your home décor.

Herringbone flooring

Herringbone flooring is a type of flooring that features a distinctive pattern made up of interlocking blocks. It is named after the herring, which has a similar-looking skeleton.

This type of flooring has been around for centuries and was traditionally made from stone or bricks. Today, herringbone floors can be made from a variety of materials, including wood, laminate, and vinyl.

Herringbone flooring have a unique visual appeal that can add interest and character to any space. They are also very durable and easy to maintain, making them ideal for high-traffic areas.

Engineered flooring

Engineered flooring is a type of flooring that is made up of multiple layers of different materials. The top layer is usually made of hardwood, while the bottom layer is typically made of plywood or another type of wood. Engineered flooring is designed to be more durable and stable than traditional hardwood floors, making it a popular choice for high-traffic areas and homes with pets or children.

If you're looking for new floors, be sure to visit a flooring store near me. You'll be glad you did! Flooring stores near me provide the best selection of flooring products and services in the area.